Any one have idea on this? function onOpen() { var sheet = SpreadsheetApp.getActiveSpreadsheet(); var Menu = [{ name: "Save", functionName: "run macro" }]; sheet.addMenu("Testing", Menu); } function run macro(){ var cell = SpreadsheetApp.getActiveRange(); cell.setValue('Yes'); } A: You should be using the getValue() method instead of the getActiveRange() method. function onOpen() { var sheet = SpreadsheetApp.getActiveSpreadsheet(); var Menu = [{ name: "Save", functionName: "run macro" }]; sheet.addMenu("Testing", Menu); } function run macro(){ var cell = sheet.getRange("A1"); cell.setValue('Yes'); } Exchanges are valuable tools in the financial markets. They provide liquidity, so investors can buy and sell without having to worry that their funds will be locked up for a long period of time. When investors make trades on an exchange, other market participants can access the order book. This offers a way for multiple investors to enter or exit an order for an asset, at the same price. Exchanges and the WSJ Recently, the Wall Street Journal
